LONDON STREET RAILWAYS. Comment About the Plans of Yerkes, the Chicago Magnate.

The arrival of Mr. Charles T. Yerkes of Chicago in London on an alleged mission to secure control of the electric tramway system of the metropolis has led to considerable newspaper criticism. The London Star calls Mr. Yerkes "the man who owns a $25,000,000 monopoly in Chicago, and wants to run electric cars here," and then pro-

DR. JOSEPH HELLER'S EXPERIENCES

His Active Service With the Army and What He Saw.

AWAIT THE ELECTION

Surgeon Joseph M. Heller of the District of Columbia, has just returned from an extended campaign in the Philippines, bringing with him an honorable record and the recommendation of Gen. Otis for his adancement in recognition of signal bravery and conscientious service.

When the Spanish-American war broke out Dr. Heller left his practice in this city and entered the service of Uncle Sam as an acting assistant surgeon. He was assigned to the 4th Artillery, where he served for five months, and later was attached to Camp Wykoff in the general hospital there, and won the lasting regard and friendship of the sick boys of the District volunteers whom he attended at that place. Under his care seventy-five District boys were nursed through the Cuban fever, and his good work in this line won special recognition, through the Cuban fever, and his good work in this line won special recognition, and he was recommended and later made assistant executive officer of this hospital, which had the distinction of being the largest field hospital ever known. It had in all 2,000 beds. After his service at Montauk Point, Dr. Heller joined the 3d United States Cavalry, and served with those rugged fighters for eight months. The reputation he had already won for himself made his services valuable, and when the famous fighting 24th Infantry was ordered to the Philippines Dr. Heller was detailed and joined them at San Francisco. This company, upon arrival at the Philippines, was assigned to the Flying Brigade, under Gen. Young, in Gen. Lawton's division, and ordered at once to the front. Dr. Heller has many pleasing reminiscences of the gallant Lawton, and never these of recounting his bravery and absolute disregard of death. Dr. Heller's most signal service was in connection with Gen. Lawton's advance northward from San Fernando in October, to the termination of Capt. Batchelor's famous march and engagement at Apart, which is on the north coast of Luzon. This was in January, and Dr. Heller had ample opportunities during this campaign to put into practical use his medical and surgical knowledge. In the official report made to the commanding general, Dr. Heller was highly complimented, and later on, in February, the chief surgeon of Gen. Lawton's division strongly recommended him for promotion. The case was so meritorious that Gen. Otis cabled to Washington the followmotion. The case was so meritorious that Gen. Otis cabled to Washington the follow-

Gen. Otts cabled to Washington the following message:

"J. M. Heller, acting assistant surgeon, strongly recommended for a major and surgeon, U. S. V. I concur."

As Gen. Otts only made a limited number of such recommendations for promotion in the medical corps, his recognition of Dr. Heller is considered quite an honor.

Interesting Experiences. s a mountaineer from his soldier life. Dr. part of the week. Speaking to a Star re porter of his experiences, he said:

part of the week. Speaking to a star reporter of his experiences, he said:

"It was my good fortune to be one of the American command to penetrate for the first time the northern and central portions of the Island of Luzon. Through this island runs the Rio Grande de la Cagayan, one of the largest rivers of the island, sometimes called the Mississippi of the Philippines. It runs through a beautiful valley, hemmed in by ranges of mountains, and is completely shut off from the southern and middle portions by the Casaballo mountains. It proved the richest and most productive region of the island, the most inaccessible and the least known. With Capt. Batchelor's battalion I traversed over ninety miles of the winding Guyapa trail, through a succession of mountain ridges which forms the great divide. These trails were very little traversed by the Spaniards, so that the wonders and beauties of forest foliage and huge geologic formation gave us a kaleidoscopic panorama of thrilling interest. We were invading nature's museum, as it were, and feasting our eyes for the first time upon the wonders of natural creation. One of these days I expect this will be the Mecca for the wealthy tourist. It was not far from here we ran across the Igorrote tribe, commonly called 'head hunters' far from here we ran across the Igorrote tribe, commonly called 'head hunters.' These people are armed with spears and wooden shields, and invade the valley in small bands during the holiday season to collect heads, a certain number being required before they can claim their brides. To carry out this barbarous custom they red before they can claim their brides, carry out this barbarous custom they ke no distinction between Americans, unlards or Filipinos. All heads look allke them. After crossing the great divide valley containing the three largest provessions are unit, when like a huge respectively. to them. After crossing the great divide the valley containing the three largest provinces came into view, like a huge panorama studded in a frame of mountain chains. Here the tobacco farms of the large tobacco companies abound. All of the ground is owned by these large companies, and their agents and managers live in regal style, surrounded by thousands of Filipinos to do their bidding. This valley contains the third largest city in Luzon, Fuguegarlo, the capital of the province of Cagayan, Vigan, on the west coast, being the second largest. "The soil is rich and very productive, and during my trip I saw small private gardens belonging to Spanish families where most of the vegetables known in our country were raised. The people of this valley are more intelligent, physically better proportioned and more friendly to the United States than any of the natives I met. They have more respect for sanitary matters, and the towns of this valley are kept clean. The wells are deep and well tiled to prevent surface drainage during the rainy season. As a consequence of all this the health of the natives is better than in any other part of the island. In my trip to the north I noticed many alligators, and the antics of the monkeys in the trees were something entirely new. We traversed these provinces for about 250 miles and north I noticed many alligators, and the antics of the monkeys in the trees were something entirely new. We traversed these provinces for about 250 miles and finally found ourselves at Aparr! on the north coast of Luzon. As I said before, the people in this region were very friendly, and we were not surprised to receive invitations from the president of the town to a dance given in our honor. The affair was attended by the leading Filiphno families, and the belle of the evening was a dusky Venus of the Mestizo type dressed in a Pino cloth waist with sleeves half a yard wide and a train-trailing light blue brocaded silk skirt. She made a hit on the officers, and the next day they hunted her up and she was discovered running a small fruit store. During the dance a dinner was served in the Filipino custom. The young ladies proposed the toasts. They were mostly in Spanish, but one Chinese half-breed, who had evidently read some of Mr. Atkinson's literature, proposed the following toast in very good English: Here's to William J. Bryan and Aguinaldo, whose principles are the same. The majority of us at that dinner were republicans, and we didn't like the toast and refused to drink. The dance was surprising in that I found the young ladies were traceful, although the dance was surprising in that I found the young ladies very graceful, although they danced the waltz very slowly. The two-step has been introduced and they like it.

Question of Health.

"No large armed force of insurgents now exists in the Philippines, but small roving bands of ladrones manage to harass our troops in all parts of the islands, and when I left they were causing a great deal of trouble. Our lists of killed and wounded are as large today as they have ever been are as large today as they have ever been when our troops were in active campaign. Every town of any consequence in Luzon is garrisoned with from a half to two companies, and in this way one regiment sometimes extends over a distance of twenty to run electric cars here," and then proceeds:

"Chapters of Mr. Stead's book on Chicago are devoted to scorching criticism of Mr. Yerkes as a tax dodger."

The Express comments: "It is said that "Baron Yerkes," as Chicagoans called him has sold the greater part of his interests in the United States, and is bringing $50,000,000 to this country in hard cash. What will he do with it? Gossips say he is going to make a great bid for tramway and rail-way concessions in London; that he intends to link up all means of passenger transport in the metropolis as he has done in Chicago, and realize another mighty fortune. Rumor says he dangled filo.000 (about $50,000) before the astonished and indignant gaze of certain of our honest county and common councillors."

paniles, and in this way one regiment sometimes extends over a distance of twenty miles. A great amount of sickness prevails in the Philippines. It is mostly of an Intestinal character, and prone to become chronic. I have seen hundreds of men, who have been sick for months, with no prospect of ever fully recovering in the tropics, kept there, when they should have been sent home. It seems a pity that so many men should be deprived of their only chance to regain their health and vigor. The medical department of the army is in excellent shape, and there is an abundance of medical supplies of all sorts. The hospitals which have been established are come chronic. jority of the natives peaceful, very fond of home life and effectionate to their wives and children. I attended a great many of them professionally, and had a good opportunity of observing them. One thing was most remarkable. It was their capacity to endure and suffer pain without demonstration or showing the least sign of discomfort. This was evidenced many times when I attended wounded Filipinos. When carrying out an examination which was necessarily painful, in order to ascertain the extent of disability, these fellows never uttered a murmur nor showed by their stolid expression that life was anything out of the ordinary. I left Manila May 28, taking a side trip to China and Japan. "In China I visited Hong Kong, Shanghai and Canton, and while there I heard considerable talk about the Boxers' and the antipathy of the Chinese to the missionaries. We found the Chinese very insolent and ready on all occasions to show their dislike for Europeans. Upon the advice of friends not to pay any attention to their insults, we had no trouble. The ports of Japan which I visited were a revelation in the courtesy I received from the people, and I was struck with the cleanliness and excellent sanitary conditions that prevall. The cities are well regulated and excellently administered by municipal governments that are strictly up to date.

"My experience has been of untold value to me. I have seen the world, served my country to the best of my ability and gathered a fund of information that never could ered a fund of information that never could be learned from books. But I am glad to get back to Washington, the most beautiful city I have seen. Glad to bear witness to the bravery of our boys in the far east. Glad to bring their assurances that the war will be over when President McKinley is re-elected. For that is what the insurgents are awaiting. They have been filled with sensational literature, sent out by the democrats, and are hoping against hope that Bryan will win and give them independence. They do not know the meaning of the word, or, knowing it, could not appreciate it. The stars and stripes have been planted in the Philippines, and the loyal sons of Uncle Sam will see to it that they are never hauled down."

ORDER IN NEW ORLEANS.

Police Force Supplemented by Calling Out the State Militia. Disorderly scenes following the rioting of Wednesday night prevailed throughout the city of New Orleans yesterday and resulted in the swearing in by the mayor of 500 special policemen and the ordering out of 1.500 of the state militia.

Gov. Heard responded promptly to the appeal of Mayor Capedevielle for assistance in suppressing the existing lawlessness and in preventing last night a recurrence of the violence of the preceding night. Throughout the day attacks were made by irre out the day attacks were made by irresponsible mobs of whites upon the blacks. Before nightfall the negroes had been effectually chased from the streets. The effect of the disorders was to put a practical stop to business in the wholesale districts, and on the levee fronts. As this meant a serious crippling of the trade of the port, the business element railied in force and hundreds of the most prominent men of the city responded to the appeal of the mayor for assistance in preserving order.

A summary of the killed and injured growing out of the disturbance Wednesday night and yesterday shows that one negro was beaten to death, six were so badly wounded that their lives are despaired of and about a score of persons, white and black, male and female, have been more or less seriously wounded. In order to prevent the miscellaneous distribution of arms the mayor last evening ordered the closing of gunshops likely to supply the > Col. Wood, who commanded the 1st Louisiana Regiment in the Spanish war, was placed in command of the special po-lice. The police have been practically help-less during the disturbance. The force con-sists of about 200 man including clocks less during the disturbance. The force consists of about 300 men, including clerks and telegraph operators, and was manifestly a force inadequate to the preservation of the peace of a city of 310,000 people. The fierce indignation among the members of the department at the ruthless murder of Captain Day and Patrolman Lamb by the negro Robert Charles to some extent made the police sympathetic with the mobs in their pretended efforts to avenge the murders. The fact that there has been a strong feeling on the part of the working people against steamship agents and contractors employing negro labor to the exclusion of whites on public works and on clusion of whites on public works and on the levee fronts also contributed some-what, it is believed, to the disinclination of the police to do their full duty.

HILL RATHER THAN CROKER. Significance Attached to a Visit Made by Ex-Gov. Stone.

A New York dispatch states considerable significance attaches to the visit paid yesterday by ex-Governor Stone of Missouri to David B. Hill at Normandie-by-the-Sea. It is understood he went to arrange for a conference of leaders, which is taken to mean that the national campaigners are depending more upon Hill than Croker for advice and assistance; also that Hill's regularity is recognized by the Bryanites.

Chairman Jones and Mr. Campau may make a tour of the eastern states and get acquainted with the situation by personal observation and personal talks with the state leaders. There are to be no eastern headquarters of the democratic national committee for the present, at least. The tions.

In New York city Croker and Tammany, and in Kings the McLaughlinites have promised to take care of the canvass without any assistance, except such speakers and literature as the national committee may send out. Up state Hill and the state committee and Norman E. Mack, national committeeman, will look after matters.

In introducing the Indian budget in the English house of commons yesterday the secretary for India, Lord George Hamilton, commended the patience, resignation, courage and abstention from crime with which 52,000,000 people in the stricken area have faced famine.

The latest reports from India, he said, were anything but satisfactory.

The latest reports from India, he said, were anything but satisfactory. On the other hand, there were certain compensating advantages in the shape in which the revenue year closed. There was, he said, a substantial credit balance of £2,870,000 (about $14,495,000), but the famine expenditure and remission of taxation would turn this into a deficit of £826,000 (about $4,130,000). The government proposed to apply the unexpended balance of £8,000,000 (about $15,000,000) of the former loan toward relief. This would, he hoped, meet all demands. If the resources of India did not suffice to save the lives of the famine-stricken, then an appeal would be made to
